STEAL A TON OF COAL

Burglars Make a Novel Haul in Northeast Washington.

DARKNESS AIDS CONSPIRATORS

Use Horse and Wagon to Carry Off Winter Fuel Supply of Sydney Cluxton, Who Resides at 57 Q Street, Overlook Store of Preserves. They Do Job Systematically.

Sydney H. Cluxton, who lives at 57 Q street northeast, was the victim of a most unusual burglary, which he attributes to the temptation afforded to nocturnal prowlers by the darkness of the street upon which he resides.

"There are only three small incandescent lamps on the block, which is a large one," said he last night while telling of his peculiar loss; "and the darkness is further accentuated by the fact that the trees which grow along the sidewalk are permitted to hang so low one cannot walk upright under them with a raised umbrella, and it is utterly impossible to see across the street at night."

Mr. Cluxton, who is employed at the Government Printing Office, stored in his cellar his winter supply of coal, and then nailed the window fast. When the cold weather suggested to Mrs. Cluxton the advisability of a trip into the cellar, she was amazed to find the window open and part of the supply gone.

Used Victim's Shovel. Investigation showed the window had been forced from the outside—"jimmied open," Mr. Cluxton said—in spite of the nails inserted a few days before. As near as he could calculate, at least a ton of coal had been taken. "And they even used my own shovel for the purpose," he added, "crossing the cellar to secure it and leaving it near the window."

"There must have been two of the thieves, and they must have worked for a couple of hours or more, carrying the coal out by the bagful. In fact, outside the window we found a small piece of blackened rope, which had evidently been used to the each bag with."

"The fellows, it is most likely, had a horse and wagon standing in front of my house, and took their time about the job, feeling, evidently, immune from interruption on that dark street, where a policeman is rarely seen after nightfall. The job must have been done between midnight Sunday and 4 o'clock Monday morning."

Missed the Preserves. "I am glad, though," continued Mr. Cluxton, "that the thieves did not notice 150 jars of home-made preserves on the cellar floor, covered only by paper. They sure would have taken these, and they would be a great deal harder to replace than the coal."

"I don't mind the loss of the coal so much," he concluded, "but it angers me to think that we have to live in a place so dark that it isn't safe for women or children to venture on the street after nightfall, while burglars ply their vocation with apparent impunity."

"It is a condition of affairs that is a disgrace to a city which pretends to employ metropolitan protection of lights and police."

Anacostia Makes Complaint.

In response to a personal appeal from the residents of Anacostia, Commissioner West, who effectively inaugurated, last summer, the clean-up process of the city, is now turning his attention to that vicinity. One of the specific causes for complaint is the keeping of cows in sheds, which are receptacles for rubbish and other deleterious articles. Commissioner West has ordered a thorough examination.

New Public Park.

The Commissioners yesterday transferred a section of land at the intersection of Florida avenue and Twenty-second street to the government by which it will be converted into a public park. In a letter to Brig. Gen. M. Alexander Macfarland, chief engineer of the United States army, they say that the park is to be created in connection with the paving of Florida avenue between P and Q streets.

$10,000 TO HANDLE SNOW.

Superintendent Twohey Makes Recommendations on Street Cleaning.

The report of Supt. John T. Twohey, of the street-cleaning department, for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1906, shows that the appropriation of $38,046.42 covered the entire expenses of that department and left an unexpended balance of $7,478.75.

There being an unexpended balance of $22.31 from 1905, the total available amount for the removal of snow and ice during 1906 was $2,922.51, as against $16,892.55 the previous year. Under the act approved March 2, 1895, the snow and ice appropriation is only available for removing that material from the crosswalks to a width of ten feet and from gutters to a width of one foot. An appropriation of $19,000 is asked for this purpose for the coming fiscal year, as Mr. Twohey states that as last winter was an exceptionally mild one it cannot be selected as a basis to establish future expenditures.

The report states that the littering of streets is one of the greatest difficulties with which the department has to contend, it being estimated that this feature of the work of cleaning the streets occupies about one-fourth of the time of laborers which would otherwise be devoted to the work of removing dust and dirt from the carriageways. Mr. Twohey says in his report that it is to be regretted that the police regulation prohibiting this nuisance is not more generally observed.

The sum of $191,500 was expended for sprinkling, sweeping, and cleaning; $100,000 for the collection of city refuse, including inspection and incidental expense, and $47,500 for salaries. The increase of $22,500 of the salary list as compared with last year was due to the transfer to a per annum rate of employees who had previously been paid a per diem compensation out of the street-cleaning and city refuse appropriations, respectively.

WANTS ONLY CASES OF MERIT.

Judge Asks that Corporation Counsel Dismiss Unworthy Actions.

Judge I. G. Kimball, of the District branch of the Police Court, in a letter to the Commissioners yesterday, calls their attention to the number of cases presented to him for trial, which, he said, had been investigated by the corporation counsel, would have been found without merit and should therefore have been nolle prossed by that official.

In August, 1904, the Commissioners ordered the assistant corporation counsel to take into court for his settlement every case brought before him, except those in which, upon examination of evidence submitted by the District, he is satisfied that a prima facie case has not been made out.

This order, said Judge Kimball, as now carried out, not only imposes a burden upon the court which ought not to be imposed, but endangers the records of the Police Court with cases that ought not to be there. It is likewise an unjust hardship on the citizen. Judge Kimball therefore suggests that the order be amended, and that the corporation counsel and his assistants be given the usual powers exercised by all other prosecuting officers.

The request of Judge Kimball will be considered by Commissioner Macfarland, who will make the final recommendation. Commissioner Macfarland said yesterday the principle involved was whether the cases were to be tried by the judges of the Police Court or the corporation counsel.

Lamp Contract Nears Completion.

The American Street Lighting Company, of Baltimore, which, in July, obtained a three-year contract with the District involving the conversion of all the old flat flame burner gas lamps into incandescent gas lamps, notified Commissioner Macfarland yesterday that it had erected 6,387 out of a total of 7,553 lamps, and expected to complete the work in one week.

Examinations for District Bar.

The examinations for applicants who desire admission to the District bar will be held on November 23 and 24, at the Georgetown Law School, Sixth and E streets. Attorney Ralph Given, secretary to the committee on examinations, has given notice that applications must be handed in on or before November 18.

Fined for Smoke Law Violation.

A fine of $50 was imposed on Robert N. Harper, owner of a building at 87 C street, for not complying with the smoke law. Inspector Butts testified that smoke emitted from the chimney of the building on October 9, twenty-five out of forty minutes.
